GREEK LOSS IN WAR HAS LED PEOPLE TO PROTEST

Constantine's Abdication Demanded By Greeks In America

SOLDIERS IREFUL

Govt. Fears Effect Of The Return Of Men Who Fought Turk

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 4.—The Journal Des Debats reports: "In consequence of the Greek reverses in Anatolia, the feeling against the Government and even against the Monarchy is becoming stronger throughout Greece. The publication of the army's losses has made a very unfortunate impression on Greek public opinion.

Moreover the Government does not seem to be very much disposed to carry out demobilisation of the classes, fearing the effect of the return home of the soldiers who are incensed against the Government.

The Ministry is being subjected to very severe attacks by the Opposition, which insists on the convocation of the Chambers before the departure of M. Gounaris, the Premier, for Great Britain. King Constantine is also strongly taken to task by certain newspapers."

Greeks in America, at a meeting at New York, unanimously passed a resolution demanding the abdication of King Constantine.

TURKS ALSO SEEK PEACE
(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Oct. 4.—Izzet Pasha voiced the growing disposition in Turkey in favor of peace, in a speech today in which he declared that the Turks desired to see the Sultanate and Khilafat strengthened, and the administration of Turkey developed on truly constitutional lines. He declared that Turkey had as yet made no official request for intervention but he applauded outside efforts which had been made in this direction.

3 ARE SHOT IN ROBBER'S RAID; POLICE PURSUE

Armed robbers last night wounded three Chinese following a double holdup in the Ying Ziang Kong, in the country off Ward Road, just on the border of the International Settlement.

Six or seven men, four of them armed, held up two shops, one of them a tea shop and the other a combined piece goods and rice store, stealing over $500 in cash before they made their getaway.

When Chinese villagers chased them, the robbers fired several shots, three bullets hitting Chinese.

The three injured men were taken to St. Luke's Hospital. One wound may prove to be serious as a bullet went through the upper lip of one of the injured men. The others were hit in the leg and arm, respectively.

Detective Gabbutt of the Yangtszepoo Station and a large staff of Chinese were at work scouring the country for the men involved in the robbery but no arrests had been made up to an early hour this morning. The detectives worked under disadvantages as the Settlement boundary line runs through the village where the double holdup was staged.

SILESIA DECISION READY, WILL BE OUT SATURDAY

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 4.—The Journal des Debats learns that the Council of the League of Nations has reached complete agreement regarding Upper Silesia and has drafted its conclusions. The Council's decision will very probably be communicated on Saturday to the President of the Supreme Council.

COLONEL William N. Haskell, who has sailed for Russia, where he will have charge of the American Relief Administration's work in the famine-stricken regions of Russia.

BRITISH TO AID RUSSIANS WITH WAR SUPPLIES

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—The British Government has decided to contribute towards Russian Famine relief certain war surpluses held by the Disposals Board, consisting of medical stores, clothing, etc., costing about £250,000. These supplies will be handed over to the British Red Cross Society for distribution in Russia.

London, Oct. 5.—Reports from Moscow state that a revolution in agricultural methods is proceeding in Russia. The peasants are no longer content to rely on Providence for successful crops. They are profiting by the lessons of the drought and are making extensive irrigation works. The railways are almost entirely devoted to carrying seed-corn which is preserved with reverential care.

Foreign relief arrangements are progressing satisfactorily. The British "Save the Children" Fund is feeding 250,000 children in Saratov province where Quakers have undertaken responsibility for the complete relief of a large district.

ALL BOATS FOR FOOD

Moscow (by mail), Sept. 10.—Inland navigation is drawing to a close. The last days of the season are being devoted entirely to the transportation of food-stuffs to the famine regions by the canals connecting the Baltic Sea and the Volga River.

In the Marinsky region 39 new boats were launched during the summer; in the Unginsky and Oka districts in the Volga region 37 new boats were constructed; their engines, however, are repaired ones from old boats and factories.

Women Will Help Find Homes For Feminine Visitors

Means of helping young women arriving in Shanghai to find living accommodations and positions were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Women's Overseas League, held at 7 Route des Soeurs. The organisation, which formerly devoted itself mainly to the entertainment of navy men, has decided to broaden its program. A committee was appointed to investigate room registries and similar agencies now in existence, with a view to co-operation.

Mrs. Charles M. Campbell, of the Shanghai American School was elected temporary chairman, to serve during the six weeks' absence of the president, Miss Helen Sanger, who is visiting Peking. A telegram expressing the good wishes of the organisation was sent to Miss Caroline Thompson, first president of the League, whose engagement to Mr. Eugene Templeton of Peking was recently announced.

Great Demonstration Of Unemployed Ends Under London Police Truncheons

Trafalgar Square Is Scene Of Sharp Affray After Big Procession In Hyde Park Decides To Meet Under Nelson Column

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—London witnessed its biggest march of unemployed today when ten thousand took part in a procession to Hyde Park, carrying banners inscribed with taunting comparisons between 1914 and 1921. There was no disorder. The promoters of the march had arranged for a demonstration at Trafalgar Square at the same time as the unemployed question was being discussed by the London County Council, but the police prohibited this, and hence the procession to Hyde Park.

Mr. Harry Gosling, President of the Transport Workers' Federation, addressing the London County Council, said that the number of unemployed in London had increased from 93,465 to 139,938 in the last three months. Trade Union benefits had been practically exhausted and a state of utter despair had now been reached.

The atmosphere in the East End was electrical and was capable of almost anything. The Labor leaders were losing control of the unemployed and unless the problem was settled immediately there would be a row throughout the country.

The County Council passed a resolution calling on the Government to provide work or as an alternative to maintain the unemployed.

Later.—A brief but ugly encounter with the police occurred at Trafalgar Square. One of the leaders of the demonstration at Hyde Park urged the crowd to assemble in the Square in spite of the regulations.

The audience, following these instructions, marched in procession part of the way to the Square and then proceeded individually. Attempts were made to mount the plinth of the Nelson Column but these were defeated by mounted and foot police who sprang up from all sides and pressed back the demonstrators.

More of the latter arrived and these rushed the Square, upon which the police drew their truncheons and pursued the invaders, who fled. Several bottles were thrown at the police as they charged up one side of the Square.

There were a few casualties on both sides. Several arrests were made.

"Hello Men" Out On Strike; Foreign Girls Are At Work

The night shift of operators of the Shanghai Telephone Company, due to go on duty at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon refused to take their seats at the switchboards yesterday and that's the reason that you got that cheery, musical, home-recalling, feminine "number, please," when you wound up the instrument last evening.

The strike, which came entirely without warning and after the officials and heads of the departments had finished for the day, thus handicapping emergency relief measures, was due to the arrest by the French police of an operator who had just been dismissed for insolence to a telephone user.

The operators, some sixty in all, declared that they would not return to work until their former fellow worker had been released from custody. The Telephone Company officials expressed a disposition to see that the man was released on bail and the strikers at Central exchange assembled in the building, took the matter under discussion, but up to a late hour last night no agreement had been reached.

Meanwhile operators from the other exchanges, who had also refused duty, gathered outside the building, awaiting the outcome of the discussion between the management and the Central operators.

As soon as the management was appraised of the difficulty, steps were taken to mobilise the emergency staff of foreign girl operators and ten of these were soon on duty at the Central exchange, while others were sent to the outlying stations.

It was stated by the management last evening that in the event that the strike was not broken a force of thirty girls would be at work today. The efficiency of this emergency staff is such that no difficulty should be experienced by subscribers.

The trouble arose Tuesday night when a Chinese member of the French police department got into an altercation with an operator while endeavoring to get a number. Yesterday a letter was sent to the telephone company to the effect that their employe had been insolent and had used foul language and the man was dismissed. Later the operator was arrested in Frenchtown. The demand made by the operators was that the arrested operator be released. There was no stipulation, the management stated, that he be reinstated in the service and the dismissal would stand.

Russia Under Lash Of The Four Horsemen of St. John

By Bruce Hopper

If an observer could paint for us his predominating impression of Russia during the past four years of vicissitude we would probably see a picture of near approach to fulfilment of the dream of St. John of Patmos, that the Four Horsemen, War, Pestilence, Famine and Death, shall decimate the people of the earth.

The tone of the picture would be glooms and obscurity. The figures would be those of terrified people moving in the mass toward the frontiers. Above, behind, and everywhere, even following fugitives into exile, would be the swift and furious Horsemen, terrible and sure in their destruction.

With perfect knowledge that famine and plague will probably make southeastern Russia a vast cemetery this winter unless immediate steps are taken the League of Nations has decided to stay official relief measures until the Brussels conference makes some decision.

Dr. Nansen asserted his belief in the honor of the Soviet officials not to subvert relief supplies to the Red army. The Allies believe otherwise, and refuse the guarantee. They declare themselves willing to relieve the peasants, but not in a way which will tighten the grip of the Soviet government upon Russian affairs. In this they may show superior wisdom, politically.

On the other hand the Soviets refused to admit a relief mission which had for personnel the bitterest enemies of Communism. It may be that the Allies would utilise their relief work as a wedge to disrupt the Soviet regime, collect Czarist debts, and promote their own selfish interests in trade. The information at present available is insufficient to permit judgment upon the League's decision save in the name of humanity. It will be for future historians to put the stigma at its proper door. One thing alone seems certain now, winter is closing in, and as transport becomes more difficult the possibility of checking famine and scourge will become even more remote.

RECALLS WRANGEL ROUT

With another great calamity hanging over Russia it is interesting to recall incidents of the relief provided last November when General Wrangel's army was driven to the sea by the Reds, and forced to evacuate Crimea in the utmost confusion of a military rout. Refugees, numbering 130,000, crowded into fifty ships, hulks and lighters, followed the White Guard leader into exile, and were distributed to arid islands in the Grecian archipelago, and Balkan countries already in the grip of post-war impoverishment.

The feature of that evacuation was the gallant effort of the United States navy. The French were supporting Wrangel with money and supplies, and General Pelles was therefore in supreme

Funeral Procession Of R38 Victims At Hull, England, Where Inquest Into Disaster Has Been Held

NONE IS BLAMED AT INQUEST INTO R. 38 DISASTER

Flight Lieut. Wann Commander Of Ill-Fated Airship Is Not Called

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—The inquest on the victims of the R38 disaster was resumed at Hull today.

The coroner told the jury that it was their duty to discover whether the disaster indicated criminal negligence.

He reviewed the trials of the airship in 1920 and 1921, when various defects were remedied. During the long trial flight on July 17, he said, buckling of a girder had developed, which was attributed to the propellers, but alterations afterwards had satisfied experts that the R38 was the last word in airship construction.

The survivors had testified that the ship was thoroughly tested throughout the fatal flight, no defect developing.

Flight-Lieutenant Wann, commander of the R38, was not called, the officer at Howden Base explaining that he was progressing satisfactorily and had been allowed out of hospital to attend a football match on September 24. The excitement, however, had caused a relapse, necessitating his removal to hospital in London.

The jury considered that Lieut. Wann's evidence could not further explain the disaster and returned a verdict of "accidental death due to the airship breaking from an unknown cause."

Meighen Pictures British Empire As League Of States

(Reuter's Service)

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—Following upon the dissolution of Parliament, Mr. Arthur Meighen, the Prime Minister, has issued a manifesto in view of the general election in favor of the maintenance of the tariff and of Canada's connection with Britain, declaring for the maintenance of the British Empire as a league of autonomous nations.

There were common burdens which all must share, but these burdens were light and the advantages abundant, as compared with the burdens and advantages of any other conceivable destiny. Mr. Meighen specially appealed to the women electors whom the Government have enfranchised.

See Shanghai, Many Odd Sights For Tourist Here

By Elsie McCormick

It is a well-known fact that half the people living in Buffalo have never seen Niagara Falls. It is equally well-known that ninety percent of the permanent residents of New York were never inside the Statue of Liberty and never threw sticky popcorn at the sea-lion in the aquarium.

Coming a paragraph nearer home, how many dwellers of Shanghai have ever visited the Temple of the Queen of Heaven in North Honan Road, wandered through the Zung Au Aye Temple opposite the Bubbling Well, or climbed the dusty flights of winding stairs to the top of the Lung Wha Pagoda? You may put your hands down, ladies and gentlemen, we thought so. Neither, let it be whispered, have we.

It has long been the custom to rush visitors to a tiffin at the Astor House, hurry them out on a motor car trip to Siccawei or the Rubicon, and then bundle them on a train with the remark that there is nothing to see in Shanghai anyway and that the Ming elephants up in Nanking are just too cute for words.

TURTLE SOUP POND

Nothing to see in Shanghai—with the Zung Au Aye dating back to 250 A.D. and the Willow Tea House, from which the willow ware of our grandmother's sideboards were named, standing guard over a pond that looks like green turtle soup? While there are certain olfactory advantages in viewing the tea-house from the standpoint of the sideboard or a picture postcard, the person who misses a walk over the stone bridges, built zig-zag fashion, so that ghosts can't negotiate them is losing a chance to see China as people at home usually imagine it.

And have you ever visited the Temple of a Hundred Ages? Around its walls are ranged the special gods of every age from one year to a hundred. Before each image is a box for the burning of spirit money and incense sticks, and all the visitor has to do is to remember how many candles were on the cake last year. The Temple of a Hundred Ages extracts vital statistics as mercilessly as a passport office, thereby causing us to wonder why so many women at home have taken up Buddhism as a cult.

SHRINKER OF FEET

In another section of the temple dwells the Goddess of Small Feet. Heaped before her image is a great pile of silk embroidered slippers, which Chinese ladies offered as bribes in the hope of securing minimised terminal facilities. Though the bound foot has tripped out of Shanghai, at least as far as the younger generation is concerned, anything over 2AA is as unwelcome as a Scotch thistle in a hammock. Our only regret is that we failed to discover the shrine before it was too late. We would have contributed one of our old shoes anyway, if it wasn't for the fact that we are wearing them.

POOR BACON HOUNDS

It is here, too, that one sees two wooden dogs painted in undogly colors and representing the guardians to the gates of the Buddhist inferno. Every year or two these dogs must be replaced, the simple reason being that their faces are literally wiped away by pieces of bacon in the hands of the devout. It is the ingenuous Chinese theory that if the dogs' countenances are liberally smeared with bacon, they will not catch the scent of a passing soul. Therefore while one member of the family burns joss-sticks and beats gongs for the release of the deceased, another mops the muzzles of the watch-dogs with a savoury bit of pork so the spirit can sneak out unobserved.

Not far from the Temple of a Hundred Ages is the Zung Wong Miao, known to all Native City guides as "Shanghai Joss House No. 1." Though the city god has taken up a neat apartment without bath just off a large courtyard, the most interesting feature of the temple is two old boats, sooty from incense smoke, that hang suspended from the ceiling. It is in these boats, says tradition, that the first Buddhist missionaries reached China from India. Being of a skeptical disposition, we accepted the statement with our fingers crossed. All we have to say is that if they did, their theology suffered a severe shaking-up en route.

Set in the wall of the Confucian Temple near the West Gate are two pillars. On each of them is an inscription com-

DISREGARD EXTREMISTS OF IRELAND SAYS PREMIER

Also Of England, Asserts In Ll. George Speech At Inverness

IS OPTIMISTIC

Expects Favorable Outcome Of New Parley In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—Mr. Lloyd George, in the course of his speech at Inverness today, referring to the Irish question, said: "I had some hopes that we should have furthered it in the Highlands. We did not succeed. At any rate, when we enter the London Conference we shall do so with what is known as the Inverness formula. The conference will only succeed if the participaters make up their minds definitely and resolutely to trust to the common-sense of their own people and not to try to reconcile the extremists."

Referring to unemployment, the Prime Minister said that much more had been done in the past two years than ever before in the history of any country. The Government were now applying their minds to what more could be done. He counselled suspension of judgment as regards the newspaper assertions regarding a comprehensive Government scheme. These could not be a Government scheme till the Cabinet had decided and even then the judgment of the House of Commons must be taken. In conclusion, Mr. Lloyd George expressed the opinion that things were improving and urged the necessity for peace, world-wide economy and co-operation between all classes as otherwise there would be disaster.

THREE EXPERTS NOW IN CITY FOR HARBOR CONFAB

Conservancy Board Making Final Arrangements For Pending Conference

With three of the members of the Committee of Consulting Engineers called by the Whanpoo Conservancy Board to consider the results of the Shanghai Harbor Investigation already in Shanghai and the other members expected within a few days, preparations are nearing completion for the opening of the conference on October 15.

The members now here are Mr. Ott de Vries, the Dutch representative, Mr. P. G. Hornell, who represents the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Isamu Hiroi, the Japanese representative. Mr. L. Perrier, representing France, is expected to arrive by the steamer China on October 9, while Mr. F. Palmer, British representative, is coming on the Karmala, due here on the 14th. Major-General W. M. Black, of America, who is now in Japan, is also expected within a few days.

The various experts have already been furnished through correspondence with the more important data and in preparation for their taking up of the problem when they assemble here the Conservancy Board has systematised and arranged the numerous projects which have been formulated so that they may be most easily referred to and compared.

The members of the consulting Committee will be taken for sea journeys on board the steamer Hinghsin and will also cruise the inland waterways by houseboat, every facility having been considered for giving them opportunity to acquire first hand information with regard to local conditions.

Arrangements are being made for the holding of a banquet as soon as the engineers have assembled in order that local officials and business men interested may have opportunity of meeting the Committee.

The Conservancy chiefs express gratification over the lively interest which is being shown in the important problem of harbor improvement and development by Chinese officials and prominent Chinese merchants here. It is the hope of the Board that a strong Chinese sentiment may be aroused in favor of any scheme which may be selected by the experts so that the undertaking may be assured of the solid support which it so patently deserves. It is pointed out in this connection that certain erronious impressions tending to cause the withholding of such support are being corrected with good results. Possibly the most frequently recurrent and quoted of these is the impression that the development scheme involves the damming up of the river. This was a suggestion made tentatively a number of years ago simply as an instance of what might be done if found practicable, but which carried nothing in the way of official approval to justify any opposition to harbor improvement investigations.

Further Argument Heard In Tobacco Products Suit

A ruling will probably be given today by Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court on a motion for dismissal of defendants in the $250,000 breach of contract suit brought by the Tobacco Products Corporation against Jui Ong-sung and four others alleged to have been directors of the New World.

The motion, which is for dismissal of all except the first defendant, was made by Mr. G. D. Musso and was argued upon yesterday by Mr. Musso and Mr. R. T. Bryan, Jr., the Court finally reserving judgment and adjourning the hearing.

Besides Mr. Musso, Mr. J. Ross and Mr. K. E. Newman appeared for various of the defendants, while Mr. P. Faison appeared with Mr. Bryan for the complainants and several other attorneys were on hand to watch the proceedings, the case involving many interests.

Mr. Musso's contention is that the defendants should be dismissed on the ground that they are not personally responsible, the New World being a limited liability company of which they were directors.

Mr. Bryan in reply stated that by listening to counsel for the defendants he gathered that the New World was a de facto corporation, that the Tobacco Products Corporation had dealt with it as such, and that therefore suit against these defendants was estopped. Counsel undertook to define a de facto corporation, which had not been done by opposing counsel, and stated that he would show that the New World was not a de facto corporation and that the doctrine of estoppal did not therefore apply.

Mr. Bryan stated that he would rely chiefly on Chinese law, upon which Mr. Musso had laid much stress. He had never heard the words de facto corporation used in Chinese law and did not know if there were such a term, but there were two kinds of corporations, corporations de jure and de facto. A de jure corporation was one organised in accordance and compliance with the law. A de facto corporation was not a corporation by act but in fact. Counsel then quoted common law authority to show that it was essential to the existence of a de facto corporation that there be a valid law under which it might be incorporated, that there be a bona fide attempt to organise under such a law and that there be actual existence of corporate powers. If there were no corporation law in China, there could not be a corporation de jure, and then there could not be a corporation de facto. It was a question for the Court to decide whether or not there is a corporation law in China and the answer must be in the affirmative, for counsel would quote such law. Mr. Bryan contended that there had been no bona fide attempt to organise and register the corporation according to the requirements and that therefore the liability was the same as in a partnership and that, moreover, the company had laid itself liable to fine for failure to comply, and could not come to a court of equity with "clean hands."

If the Court dismissed these defendants, Mr. Bryan declared, the plaintiffs' claim against the company must stand as practically defeated. Defendants, he said, had declared that the company was in the hands of other parties over whom they had no control, that they stood in the position of a limited liability company and that suit should be brought against the New World Company. If the court should give a judgment against the company what good would it be.

Counsel for the defendants wished to reply but the Court held against it. Mr. Musso then said that if the Court held that defendants were responsible it would be necessary to move that all the partners be made parties to the action.

The Court then adjourned.

ROCKEFELLER JR. MAY HELP END 'WHITE PLAGUE'

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 4.—Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Junior, sailed for Hongkong this morning.

Manila, Sept. 23. (by mail).—Concerted efforts to induce Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to devote a portion of the funds of the Rockefeller Foundation to stamping out tuberculosis in the Philippines will be made when Mr. Rockefeller arrives in Manila on October 3, the date given in press dispatches from Peking.

Governor Yeater has already cabled Mr. Rockefeller, inviting him to come to Manila and urging him to join in the anti-tuberculosis campaign. Dr. Victor C. Heiser, of the Rockefeller Foundation, is investigating the advisability of the matter at Mr. Rockefeller's request.

Tuberculosis is the most serious problem which the health authorities of the Philippines have to contend with. It was stated some time ago that almost eighty percent of the population of the islands had the disease in some form. The annual death rate from tuberculosis is heavier than from any other disease.

USE MORE RUBBER IS SHAREHOLDERS SLOGAN TO PUBLIC

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—The first meeting of the Rubber Shareholders' Association was held yesterday. Mr. Zorn, presiding, explained that its object was to enable shareholders to have a proper voice before decisions vitally important to the rubber industry were made. He declared that the shareholders felt that proposals for the better regulation of the industry were not considered purely upon their merits, but in many cases the decision of a Company as to whether it should support a scheme was influenced by the vested interests, those who feared that the suggested new departure might interfere with their private profits or emoluments.

Mr. A. Devitt of Messrs. Lewis and Peat gave particulars of the steps being taken to extend the use of rubber. In connection with the fact that the percentage of pure rubber in many rubber articles was extremely small, Mr. Devitt expressed the opinion that in many directions it should be possible greatly to increase this percentage, even to 100 percent on some case.

He mentioned that the pure rubber shoe soles which were now being manufactured in the East lasted much longer than existing rubber soles.

manding all dignitaries, military and civil, to dismount from their horses or leave their sedan chairs and walk between the columns to do homage to the Sage. A more practical and prosaic age has forgotten the ancient courtesy, but the simple rites of Confucianism are occasionally observed in the temple by those who still respect the teacher's precepts of gentility.

ALSO THE MOSQUE

And how many foreign residents of Shanghai have ever visited the mosque erected by Chinese Mohammedans? We haven't either as yet, but we are going some day, even if we must take off our shoes at the door and walk across a floor entirely unacquainted with the Gold Dust Twins. We visited a Chinese mosque in Kalgan once, where the golden crescent of Islam shone with a strange incongruity above curling eaves and Chinese tiles. Near it was a tower, half-pagoda and half minaret, from which the faithful were called to prayer. Inside was a shrine pointing toward Mecca and a wealth of Arabic inscriptions as unintelligible to the Chinese worshippers as they were to us. Close by the entrance was a room for sacred ablutions, the performance of which, we were told, was usually more symbolic than practical. There are ten million Moslems in China, and a considerable colony of them are to be found in Shanghai.

Nothing to see here? We have heard tales of a Thieves' Alley, where the Robbers' Guild has its headquarters and the sweet sickishness of opium smoke outclasses the usual Shanghai odors. It is our opinion that a Robbers' Guild is to be found wherever two or three curio shops are gathered together, but then, being a broad-minded person, we are willing to be convinced that there are crooked streets with an exclamation point at each turn and a dime novel at every crossing.

But then we doubt if any experience here could give us the thrill of down Nanking Road at noon time in a ricsha, with two motor-cars snorting behind us and a Ford trying to climb up on our shoulder to get out of the melee.

Merkuloff's Men Quick On Trigger With Prisoners

(Daily News Agency)

Harbin, October 1.—A few days ago eight persons were deported, and their bodies were subsequently found not far from the city. The political opponents of Merkuloff mysteriously disappear every day. It is reported that they are shot outside the city of Vladivostok on the pretext of attempting to escape.

A conference of Japanese residents in Vladivostok was held in connection with the impending evacuation of Japanese forces from the Maritime Province. The conference decided to take precautionary measures against the criminal elements in the city and to find means of promoting Russo-Japanese friendship.

In the lower Amur region the Japanese forces are occupying all school buildings. The Japanese are importing into the district large quantities of liquors but nothing more.

An Unsightly Toilet Is Generally Unsanitary

Soochow tubs, tin-lined boxes and commodes look bad, smell bad, and remain dirty regardless of the care that is exercised to make them clean.

Their construction is such that the foul water is not properly conveyed away after using, and the dirt which accumulates, increases constantly.

No man can afford to retain such in his home. It presents too great a menace to his health and deprives him of the comforts which he looks for in his home. New houses will have modern plumbing: old houses can have it and should.

"Thrift is common sense applied to spending"

Thrift does not mean that you must have a throttle-hold on your pocketbook. It does not mean that you must forego all pleasures and luxury, for luxury within bounds is as necessary to the soul as food is to the body.

Luxury brings with it a love of the beautiful, which all highly developed people must have.

Thrift means rather an appreciation of values—getting the most for every dollar you spend.

HUGE DAMAGE IS DONE U.S. COTTON BY BOLL WEEVILS

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 4.—The Bureau of Agriculture cotton crop report says: The growing season has been the most disastrous on record, the crop showing a loss of 1,666,000 bales in August and September owing to the plague of bollweevils. This has advanced almost to the limits of the belt, and is doing damage such as has not been experienced since the initial invasion, while an army of other worms are stripping the leaves from plants over large areas west of the Mississippi. Farmers plan to clear off the crop and plough early in order to diminish weevil damage next year.

Shackleton's Ship Buffeted By Wind Puts Into Lisbon

(Reuter's Service)

Lisbon, Oct. 4.—Owing to adverse weather, the Quest has arrived here for an overhaul of her engines. Sir Ernest Shackleton lunched with the British Consul today and called at the British Legation.

Russia Under The Lash Of Famine Pest And Death

command of the evacuation. The British had supported Denikin, who was evacuated from Odessa in the spring, but in November the discussion of the trade treaty with Moscow was under way. British contribution to the relief of the refugees was consequently of a private nature in Constantinople.

But the American High Commissioner of the port, Admiral Mark L. Bristol, was under no obligations to either Wrangel or the Bolsheviks. His answer to call from Crimea was to send every American naval vessel under his command, and requisition those in the Adriatic, to the rescue of the helpless thousands in Crimea. The cruisers St. Louis and Chattanooga, destroyers from Egyptian waters, from Rhodes, Smyrna, and Piraeus, as well as the station ships of the American navy in the Black sea, rushed under full steam to the ports of Sevastopol, Yalta and Theodosia with orders to do everything possible for the refugees without violating American neutrality.

How the American destroyers, called Americansky Minenosetts by the Russians, earned the name of Destroying Angels was told in Shanghai by Ensign Jackson R. Tate of the U. S. Borie, now enroute to Manila. The 26th Devision of destroyers, seen on the Whangpoo several times this summer, took part in the rescue work.

Ensign Tate describes the conditions in Black Sea ports as pitiable even at that time. There was no commerce, and the stores were empty. The inhabitants would not accept money of any sort for fear the Bolsheviks would return and make it worthless. This later proved true. To obtain food supplies for the station ship clothing was the medium of exchange. An old pair of white trousers, a package of needles and a spool of thread would bring enough live stock to supply a ship's mess for weeks.

LOSES OTHER SHIRT

The mayor of Skadofsk told the ensign that the Bolsheviki had taken his other shirt, and he expected them back to claim the one he was wearing. Some of the curiosities of dress were suits made of billiard table cloth and burlap. That section was at one time a grain producing community, and grain sacks were the only available materials.

When General Wrangel's forces were driven to the coast Admiral N. A. McCully, listening post for the State Department in Russia, was in Sevastopol and took command of the American ships Cargo vessels carrying flags of Britain, France, Italy, Turkey, Norway and other nations were requisitioned to carry refugees. To these ships the American destroyers plied back and forth with their human freight, and some of them brought refugees all the way to Constantinople.

The U.S.S. Whipple was the last vessel to leave Sevastopol. The Reds were already in the town. As she steamed out, towing a barge load of refugees to the U.S.S. Humphreys, she received a megaphone message: "Well done, Whipple" from the bridge of the U.S.S. Overton, the personal tribute of Admiral McCully.

The trip of the vast fleet of refugee ships down the Black Sea to the Bosphoros was a record of terrible suffering. All the ships were loaded to the guards, men, women and children standing so close together that rest was impossible. The ships were short of fuel and of food. Sanitation was impossible. Many died from crowding, thirst and hunger. Children were born, but few lived. The American destroyers soon exhausted their supplies, and the officers and men sacrificed their rations, but there were too many refugees to make the effort really effective.

A typical case of the plight of the refugee ships was the S.S. Rion, picked up in the middle of the Black Sea by the U.S.S. St. Louis and Overton. The ship had exhausted its coal, and was floating helplessly. The 5000 refugees on board, mostly sick and wounded, had been without water for a whole day. The navy ships transhipped all the water not needed for the run to the Bosphoros, put their medical officers aboard with supplies, and towed the derelict to Constantinople. Another day under such conditions would have probably seen the annihilation of everyone aboard.

SOME SHIPS LOST

Some of the ships were lost, and never heard from. Those arriving in Constantinople were stationed in chain at the entrance to the Sea of Marmora, and the relief work began in earnest. Every ship was flying urgent signals for water and provisions. The only available supply of food was the store of tinned goods belonging to the American Red Cross, which was turned over at once.

The French High Command requisitioned all the water tenders, and began the work of taking off all the sick for whom there was accommodation. The American hospitals, and the wards of the Near East Relief were soon filled to overflowing, and there were thousands more on the ships who could not be moved. Evacuation of the refugees to the railway station was done by the American destroyers, as none of the Russians were permitted to remain in Constantinople save those vouched for by residents in the city.

The entire American colony contributed to the relief in money and personal service. The ladies, under the direction of Mrs. Bristol, maintained a canteen at the railway station for the distribution of bread and cocoa. The navy crews gave freely. No destroyer gave less than one thousand dollars gold, which from a crew of one hundred is a generous proportion.

A further contribution from the American navy was the establishment on the island of Proti of rehabilitation quarters. Refugee ships would proceed to Proti for disinfection. The refugees would first receive rations of soup and bread, and then march up the monastery for a bath and change of clothing. The cast off clothing would be washed and passed on to the next crowd. After the ship was disinfected and thoroughly cleansed the Russians would be put aboard again for departure to Galipoli, Lemnos, Serbia, or whatever destination had been assigned to them. The sick remained in the naval field hospital until fit to be moved.

REUNITE FAMILIES

A service begun by Lieut-Commander Hamilton Bryant, of the admiral's staff, was the reuniting of families which had been separated in the confusion of evacuation. A father would be on one ship, the wife on another, and their children scattered throughout the fleet with no means of communication. Representatives of Commander Bryant visited the ships to register families, and continued their efforts to bring relatives together that they might go to the same place in exile until all the ships had cleared from the harbor. The families of all the sick under American care were detained at Proti until they were able to travel together.

The daily casualties on the ships was appalling, from exhaution, and in many cases from overcrowding in the holds. Suicides were frequent, even when help and the promise of better things were at hand. The fatalistic quality of the Russian nature was never more emphatically demonstrated than during those days of waiting in Constantinople harbor.

For their work at Crimea, in Constantinople, and in carrying refugees to Balkan ports the American destroyers earned the name Destroying Angels. The Russians were grateful to the Americansky Minenosetts, and know their mission is one of mercy as well as war. The approaching crisis in Russia makes the American destroyer crews in the Far East wish they were back in the Black Sea to assist their old friends who are now more in need than ever.

The American Relief Commission, working independently of the Allies, is sending supplies through Riga. With the exception of the German doctors and medical equipment sent to Moscow the American Baltic operations are the only relief measures reaching the Russian people.

CHINESE WIRE HARDING

Manila, October 1—(by mail).—The Chinese community of Manila has cabled to President Harding, urging him to invite delegates of the Southern Government to sit in the Far Eastern Conference at Washington on November 11. The Nationalist Party of Manila, who favor Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and the Students' Union, will send similar messages, it is announced.

The cablegram reads: "We urge you to invite the delegation of the Constitutional Government at Canton to attend the Disarmament Conference at Washington, for the Peking Government is illegal and does not represent the people, and their delegation cannot represent the people of the Republic of China."

Washington, Oct. 4.—It is understood that the status of Belgium, Holland and Portugal at the Washington Conference will be similar to that of China.

Cites Japanese Aid To Semenoff As Unfriendly Act

(Delta News Agency)

Chita, Sept. 30.—Mr. Petroff, Chairman of the Russian Delegation to the Dairen Conference, has handed Mr. Matsushima of the Japanese Delegation a protest against assistance rendered by the Japanese authorities to Semenoff in his flight from the Far Eastern Republic.

The protest declares that Ataman Semenoff is a criminal offender against the Far Eastern Republic. It also points out that the help given to Semenoff indicates a continuation of an aggressive policy on the part of Japan.

Opium Deportations Strike Gloom Into Chinese In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—The Chinese colony in Limehouse are gloomy owing to the forthcoming deportation to China of Low Ping-you in consequence of his activities in opium traffic in the East End of London.

The police say that the traffic has practically been killed, at least for the time being, by deportations, and also owing to the decline in the number of Chinese sailors coming to London as a result of the opposition on the part of the Sailors' Union to the employment of Chinese on British ships.

Four Armed Robbers Ordered Executed By Mixed Court

Members Of Gang Guilty Of Yalu Road Murder Sentenced

Execution at the Arsenal was ordered for four armed robbers convicted of robbery and murder in the Mixed Court yesterday and a fifth member of the gang was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. A sixth defendant was dismissed owing to lack of evidence but was ordered expelled from the Settlement.

One of the men ordered to the Arsenal to be shot is an ex-policeman; the others, with one exception, are returned coolies. The exception, claiming to be a doctor, is the man sentenced to prison. The Court in passing sentence on him stated that while there was no evidence to show that he had participated in the robbery specifically charged there was no doubt that he had been a member of the gang.

Three of the band entered a shop at 658 East Yalu Road on August 18 of this year and stabbed to death an apprentice who tried to give the alarm. The raid nett them $20. Detective Inspector Prosser was in charge of the case and succeeded in rounding up the men after a Chinese detective by pretending to be ill had gained the confidence of the doctor, who was evidently the director of operations.

FILIPINOS AGAIN WANT TO CREATE 'WORKING CLASS'

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 1. (by mail).—The immigration question will be brought to the fore at the session of the Legislature this month by the introduction of a bill, fathered by Senator Guevara, one of the progressives, to remove most of the restrictions and thereby to increase the population of the islands.

A population of fifty millionc within the next few years is contemplated by the bill, which has several novel proposals, one being that every immigrant must be accompanied by "at least one woman, between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five."

Idiots, imbecils, contract laborers, opium addicts, the physically unfit, beggars and polygamists are to be excluded. Children of immigrants will be required to attend the public schools, and to adopt European or native dress. A tax of P24 is to be collected from each immigrant over 18 years of age.

The measure is certain to meet with strong opposition from the labor unions. As the Filipino standard of living is high in comparison with that of probable immigrants, the laborers here fear competition and will undoubtedly fight the bill. Speaker Osmena, who is friendly with sugar interests, is believed to favor a liberal immigration law. Mr. Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, has, however, blocked all attempts made thus far to introduce contract labor. Mr. Quezon derives much political support from the labor unions and it is considered unlikely that he will favor this proposal.

At all events, some agreement between Messrs. Osmena and Quezon is essential, as the two virtually control all legislation in the Philippines.

TOWNER SAID TO BE SLATED FOR NO. 2 TO WOOD

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Sept. 23. (by mail).—Representative Horace M. Towner, chairman of the House Committee on Insullar Affairs, is prominently mentioned as the next Vice-Governor of the Philippines. Colonel Frank McCoy of the United States army, who has been a member of the Wood-Forbes mission and was known to be General Wood's choice for Vice-Governor, will probably not be appointed, according to press dispatches from Washington.

Mr. Towner has been more or less in touch with Philippine affairs for several years. It is believed that his selection would be agreeable to Senate President Quezon, and probably to Speaker Osmena.

According to cabled reports received here, Secretary Weeks of the War Department has announced that an army officer would not be appointed to the post of Vice-Governor. This is believed to eliminate Colonel McCoy, although the latter would have to resign from the army if appointed.

Posters Of Bills Scoring Delegates Caught By Police

Shortly after midnight yesterday morning a Chinese constable brought into Louza station a man whom he had discovered pasting up posters calling upon the people to refuse recognition to the Chinese delegation to the Washington Conference and to protest to the opening of direct negotiations with Japan on the Shantung question.

The man gave his name as Waung Ching-san and stated that he was a cook, at present unemployed, and had been given the posters by a tailor named Tsiang who has a shop near the market at Jukong Jao. He was to be paid 600 cash when he had finished sticking the bills. The posters were carried in a sack bearing the name "B.A.T. Advertising Department" in Chinese characters. Waung was detained at the station pending instructions. Another Chinese, giving the name Waung Dien-sz, who was brought into Wayside station for pasting up similar bills in that district said that they had been given to him by a representative of the Students' Union in Frenchtown. Copies of the bills were found in various other of the police districts.

World Not Riding To Ruin, Asserts American Banker

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 5.—Mr. John Drum, President of the American Bankers' Association, sounded a new and cheerful note regarding industrial conditions, in a speech at Los Angeles cabled by Reuter's correspondent.

Mr. Drum, basing his statement on the reports of a thousand bankers throughout the country, said there was nothing either in the domestic or foreign situation to justify the pessimistic conclusion that "the world was riding to ruin." A symposium of opinion shows the three essential domestic influences which are deterring a restoration are first the delay in the adjustment of labor, which prevents lower costs; secondly, the high cost of transportation, preventing the natural movement of commodities to the market; thirdly, the unsound system of taxation, which is diverting working capital. He says there have been undeniable signs of a slight improvement in the past months.

JAPAN'S RULER IS LOSING MIND, IS LATE BULLETIN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 4.—The Vice-Minister of the Imperial Household, Mr. Sekiya, today issued the following statement with regard to the Emperor's illness:

"When bulletins were issued last April His Majesty's health had gradually improved and since that time there has been no marked change for the worse. Exercise has been taken regularly but its duration has been shortened and sometimes the assistance of attendants has been required. Nervous debility and restraint of speech are increasing and signs of exhaustion are more apparent. His Majesty's concentration of mind and memory are failing and the state of his health is uncertain and unfavorable. In his infancy His Majesty suffered from meningitis, which was followed by frequent serious illnesses in his youth, necessitating the best possible care. Since the Coronation pressure of business, both domestic and international, has regretably affected his Majesty's health."

AMERICAN FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Hope To Put Out Two Civilian Elevens This Fall

INVITE PLAYERS

Navy Offers Opposition For E-rly Cames This Fall

Boosters of American football in Shanghai are hoping high to put two elevens in the field this fall, and they want to get them on the lists now.

THE CHINA PRESS has been asked to put out a call for candidates for the 1921 team or teams. It is suggested that players of American football send in their names to the Sporting Editor of this paper, so that they may be tabulated and then brought together in a conference for organisation.

With names, addresses, telephone numbers, etc., it is suggested that newcomers will give also a hint as to what football position suits them best. It is believed that there is material here for two good elevens, and it is now time to get them thinking about the game.

Football magnates promise that even should but one team be organised a good season of football will be had with Navy elevens as opponents. The cruisers Albany and New Orleans are scheduled to be in port in turn or together throughout the season, with a possibility of other boats dropping in for games.

An early start is the first idea this fall. It is wanted to get the candidates out in uniform just as soon as possible for training, with the prospect of games to be arranged within a few weeks, and the playing season to run until New Year's day.

Shanghai's last year's team is in town, available for the 1921 eleven with but one exception. Charley Glauque's opening a university of his own at Tsingtao takes away one of the best football men that ever played in Shanghai. He will be missed at End this year, but it is believed that with the great number of Griffin arrivals from the States and Canada in the past year the loss of Glauque may be compensated for by a new man.

Other members of the 1920 XI are in port. They include Cy Wilhoit, last year's captain-end; Mal Maloney, fullback; C. J. Smith, tackle; Marden, guard; Stovall, tackle; Anderson, center; Dick Hutchinson, half back; H. D. Rodger, half back; Kneal, quarter; Boone, guard, and Hewitt.

The eleven or elevens as lined up for play this year will not necessarily follow the order of 1920. With two teams in the field the strength will be divided on a fifty-fifty basis. Some old-timers, also, are going out for different positions this year, so even if there is but one team, it is wide open to any and all who can make it.

Nothing in the way of organising for 1921 football has as yet been done. It is suggested by players that Cy Wilhoit act as captain, and Johnny Knowlan carry on as manager until a new organisation is effected. When the players line themselves up as available candidates a meeting will be called and arrangements discussed.

Get your name in early.

U. Of Wash. Nine Tied Up By Rain

The university of Washington baseball team which is touring Japan has been held in-doors now for three weeks by the continued rains. The Northwestern nine has played but one game since its arrival, and that resulted in a win for the fast Japanese Waseda nine. The Washington team is reported as getting stale from lack of practice.

TIENTSIN CITS BEAT PEKING BY SCORE OF 12-5

Swamp Peking Pitchers By 17 Hits In Game Full Of Errors

Tientsin, Oct. 1.—The Tientsin Civilians beat the Peking cits, on their own home grounds, yesterday afternoon by the score of 12 to 5.

The game from 4th inning, when Tientsin brought five runs in over the pan was a one sided affair.

Rumpt pitched a good game. At no time was he in danger, Scott relieving Rumpt in the 8th as he was tiring a little.

Tucker and Riley of Tientsin each got 4 hits. The whole Tientsin team hit like Dempseys all through the game.

Tenney of the Pekinites pitched a good game until the 4th inning when one of his last ones hit Maloney in the forehead, knocking him senseless. Maloney was only out for a half minute, or so, but the accident upset Tenney completely, and he did not pitch the same class of ball from that time on until Neergard took over the pitching job in the 8th. Maloney has a slight abrasion on his fore-head as a result of the accident.

The Peking Civilians will pay Tientsin a visit this week end. They will play the local Civies again on next Saturday and Sunday afternoons on the Recreation Grounds.

Yesterday's score follows:

	R.	H.	E.
Tientsin	12	17	8
Peking	5	5	5

Four Umpires On Deck For The Coast Game At Rec Park

San Francisco baseball fans who matched the Seals-Rainiers game recently were treated to something novel in the way of world's series umpiring. Due to the switch in series, there were four umpires in the city, and for most of the game all four worked. McGrew was behind the plate, Casey at first, Mal Eason at second and Billy Phyle at third. Later the last two had to "beat it" to make a train for Los Angeles, but they were on deck for a good share of the game. And, strange to say, there were just as many kicks as ever.

SIEMSSEN'S WIN OF 220-YD. SWIM WAS VERY CLOSE

Johnstone Of Hongkong Was Only Fraction Of A Second Behind

Hongkong, Sept. 28.—It was evident from the large audience gathered at the Victoria Recreation Club yesterday that the interest in the interport events had by no means slackened. In fact, from the cheers which greeted the competitors—both of Shanghai and Hongkong—it was evident that "the lads" present had found their favorites.

The two interport events to be contested were the 220 yards and the Long Plunge. The 220 yds. was an exceedingly well-fought tussle and although Hongkong was beaten, our men could not have put up a better fight. All the swimmers started well, turning together at the end of the first lap. Then Johnson drew steadily ahead with Laing second, Siemssen—the Shanghai "crack"—third and Brodie, (Shanghai) fourth. Johnson maintained his lead until the sixth lap but he was now losing on the turns and although he was still ahead by about a yard in the seventh lap with Siemssen just behind and Laing third, he slackened down in the eighth and Siemssen began to overhaul him. Laing still held third place but at this phase Brodie was following hard on his heels. The ninth lap saw Siemssen leading on the turn. He managed to put a yard between himself and Johnson, but at the finish the later was gradually creeping up and the Shanghai man won by only two-fifths of a second. It was a great race, magnificently won, and no one will grudge Shanghai the triumph achieved.

In the "Long Plunge" Hongkong won rather easily, Shanghai failing to score even a third. Each man was allowed three trials. M. A. R. Souza, who came in first, covered 62 ft. 10½ incs., a distance unrivalled by any of the other competitors. L. C. R. Souza (Hongkong) took second place with 54 ft. 4 incs., two inches ahead of J. Soares (also Hongkong). The longest distance reached by Shanghai was 57 ft. 4 inches made by R. W. MacCabe who finished fourth.

Mlle. Lenglen Well Again; Discusses Tennis Strategy

BY SUZANNE LENGLEN

New York, Sept. 9.—Rarely have I witnessed such an exhibiton of your slashing American tennis form as I saw this afternoon on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, where once again the representatives of Japan went down to defeat in the singles matches between the mighty stokes of Mr. Tilden and Mr. Johnston. It was no disgrace for Messrs. Kumagae and Shimidzu. Rather they should be praised to the utmost for making the good showing that they did. Your American players were at top form, and again they cut loose with the powerful smashes which characterise your style of play—a style which, when it is under control, is bound to sweep away all opposition; and this afternoon it was well under control.

Following the singles, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Willis E. Davis played an exhibition match against Dean Mathey and myself. While Mr. Mathey and I were returned the victors, 6—2, 6—1, that fact was not half so important to me as was the knowledge that at last I am on the way to get back my strength and tennis form. Serving, which heretofore had been an ordeal to me because of my physical condition, did not bother me today, and I found that I could do considerable running without fatigue, something that a few days ago was impossible. My real gratification at this improvement in my condition is because I feel that it assures my going through with a set tennis program without further disappointment to spectators and your officials, who have been so kind to me.

Let me say a few words about strategy in tennis, which was so well exemplified this afternoon by your players who opposed the Japanese.

League Assignments Will Be Made To Divide Strength

ENTRIES TO CLOSE TODAY

Changes Are Expected In The Arrangements For The Games

With entries closing at noon today for the association league, and a meeting called for 6 p.m. tomorrow at which all clubs will have a representative to discuss arrangements, football is coming out and organising for the 1921 season.

It is expected that tomorrow's meeting will see some changes in the handling of football in Shanghai as compared with other years, particularly in the assignment of the clubs in the leagues, with the idea of better dividing the strength of the league, giving closer competition and retaining football interest throughout the season.

The meeting tomorrow will be held at the Cathedral. Open discussion will be had on all football subjects.

Entries for the league, first and second divisions may be filed up until noon today with the Acting Honorary Secretary of the Football Association, Mr. W. C. G. Clifford, at No. 4 Carter Road.

Boston Is After Jack Johnson And Dempsey Battle

Boston (Mass), September 14.—A proposal to hold here on October 12 a six-round, no decision bout between Jack Dempsey and Jack Johnson was announced today by George J. Highan, state adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. Johnson, he said, had agreed and it was believed Dempsey would do so. Highan said he was drawing up a formal application to the state boxing commission. The proceeds would be used for the relief of disabled soldiers.

Hope To Book Game For Saturday Or Sunday

JAPANESE LIK LY

Shanghai Disbanded And Races Interfere Saturday

There will be one or more games of baseball in Shanghai this year, provided the United States Flagship Huron's nine can find an opponent for the week-end.

The sailors have an open slate for Saturday and Sunday; they have their team still in training; they want to play ball, Shanghai is preferred as an opponent, though, should it be impossible for the American Baseball Club to get together again, a game with a Japanese team will be accepted.

It is not likely that the Huron men will be matched again with the Shanghai team for the latter aggregation already has been disbanded, and their club house razed to make way for the races. It is probable therefore that the sailors will play their week-end game with one of the Japanese teams of the Hongkew Park League.

Navy baseball managers this morning are getting in touch with Manager Kasagawa of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, and Manager Yusuda, of the Nippon Yusan Kaisha hoping to book a game or two with Japanese teams.

In view of the races on Saturday and the reservation of the race course for training purposes, it is more than likely that the Navy-Japanese games will be played on at Hongkew Park.

I tried different ointments and so-called cures, but they never did me any good. outguessing of one's opponent. I doubt whether the most lucid sport writer could express half of what he really knows on this point. He must feel somewhat as I do when I know exactly what I wish to say in English, but cannot bring to mind the word that should be used to give the correct shade of meaning.

The whole trouble seems to be that the "outguessing" thought is practically automatic, or, I might say, subconscious. It seems to come to you without any conscious thinking on your part. It simply appears, and you act upon it. But that it is not truly automatic or subconscious is shown by the fact that it does not come to the novice or the casual player in any game. Only after one has become proficient in a sport does the ability to outguess an opponent became a part of one's accomplishments. Therefore, it appears to me that there must have been in the early stages of advancement a concrete train of thought, which later became fixed almost like a habit, finally appearing as an apparently automatic conclusion.

To reduce this idea to terms of tennis, the instant one has sent the ball to an opponent one seems instinctively to feel, to sense, just where the return will come, if a return is made. There are exceptions to every rule, and not infrequently the most accomplished players are completely fooled. But after one has reached that point of tennis perfection where outguessing the opponent becomes true in most instances, one has gained tremendous advantage.

SENSING THE PLAY

To show the sequence of mental processes which has brought about this ability to sense a play I freely confess is beyond my powers. I have heard players say that there is no such thing as outguessing, that it is a matter of chance. I cannot subscribe to that theory nor do the majority of the successful players with whom I have discussed the matter subscribe to it.

But, leaving aside the question of how the ability is gained, let us look at the practical results of outguessing, for the results are the same whether the outcome of training or the outcome of chance. Why is it that your leading players, as for instance William T. Tilden 2d, and his associates on the Davis Cup team, are not forced to do anywhere near as much running as the majority of their opponents? Is it solely because they are so accurate in placing the ball that the opposing players make few returns? I do not think so. They sense where the return is to come, they have time to take up their position without making a last-minute scramble. In short, they do not have to waste their physical energy, while at the same time they gain a tremendous added advantage in that they are set for their shot and are not forced to make the return with whatever stroke is left possible at the end of a mad dash for the ball.

Players like these men are able to choose their own game, not have it forced upon them.

Now, look across the net at their opponents. They see some of their best shots discounted. The balls are returned so quickly that they have no time to get set. They must trust to the last-minute stroke, and that probably at the end of a hard run. Their choicest returns are back at them in a flash, probably at the other side of the court. No one can have the morale, even if he had the physical ability, to stand up under this sort of punishment.

You may say that this is overdrawn in that it is not all the result of outguessing. Naturally outguessing standing alone is of little service, but when a player of real ability, backed up also by this tennis sensing, meets an equal in technique, but lacking the ability to sense the play, the result is about as I have described.

ADVANTAGES GAINED

So, you can sum up the direct practical advantages of this ability in the following points: Saving in time and consequently energy; being set for the stroke; increased confidence in your own good play. It goes without saying that the opponent suffers in just the same proportion that you gain, point for point.

In the stands it is tennis etiquette for the spectators to applaud a good play, never to decry a poor one. I have heard that in your college football you have regularly organised groups, with leaders, to cheer and encourage the respective teams. So it must be that there is practical good effect. Human nature is the same, whether on the tennis court or the football field. Does not the player whose good shot in tennis is applauded by the spectators derive encouragement, added confidence, and are these not reflected in his play thereafter

Of course this is a truism that applies to any good play, whether the result of straight tennis form, outguessing—yes, even luck, if you will. But it is a fact, nevertheless, and, however indirect it may appear, it is well worth considering in every battle of the court.

There is no person so far beyond the influence of human relationships that he is not pleased at and is not benefited by merited encouragement.

MOSLEM PLOT IN ISLANDS SHOWN UP BY SULTAN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Sept. 25 (By mail).—A plot to drive Americans and Christian Filipinos out of Mindanao and hoist the Turkish flag over all the southern provinces of the Philippines is revealed in a confidential communication received by the Bureau of Non-Christian Tribes in Manila from the Sultan of Ramain, Lanao province.

The Sultan charges that a number of chiefs in Mindanao have evidently been influenced by Mohammedan emissaries to start a revolution on a small scale against Filipino and American officials, with the purpose of bringing all the Mohammedan districts under the control of orthodox Mohammedan rulers.

The Sultan declares that he is in sympathy with the present administration, and that he and all the younger chiefs desire to live peaceably and to conform to Christian customs, "except as regards the eating of pigs," which is forbidden by the religion of Islam. He also says that the malcontents in his province would be much better off dead than alive, and offers his own services and those of his followers to kill them without the necessity of sending troops, "if the government will permit."

Attached to the letter is a communication signed by about 350 chiefs of the Mohammedan provinces, supporting the Sultan's offer.

Manila, Sept. 23 (By mail).—One out of every three union laborers in Manila is out of employment at present, according to reports just compiled by the Bureau of Commerce and Industry here. The total number of union laborers in the city is about 45,000.

Stability Of All Nations Needed Says Ll. George

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—Dealing lengthily with the inflated and fluctuating exchanges as a big impediment to trade and cause of unemployment, the Prime Minister, in the course of his address at Inverness, said that improvement depended on the stabilisation of the financial activities and foreign policies of all nations, and not merely of one.

Stabilisation would come, he declared, only when the nations learned that concord and co-operation with their neighbors constituted a firm basis for their own national prosperity and improvement, and it also depended on the nations realising that they were not increasing their national wealth every time they printed new Treasury Notes.

MEN FAINT FROM FRIGHT AS WRECK LOOMS IMMINENT

BY JOSEF W. HALL

(China Press Correspondence)

Chwotzeshan, Chahaer, Inner Mongolia, Sept. 28.—The collision which has marred the official opening of the Peking-Suiyuan line is so unique in many features that it is worth a write-up, although from the standpoint of casualities and damage done it is insignificant.

The primary cause of the accident was the insistence on the part of high railway officials to put through the special excursion trains being run to commorate the opening without delay and due regard for the ordinary traffic of the new extension. This ordinary traffic consists of two mixed trains daily each way between Suiyuan and Fengchen. Through passengers are still compelled to spend the night at Fengchen.

On October 25 three trains were despatched from Suiyuan terminal, the regular mixed train first, followed several hours later by a returning excursion train, and at another interval of only ten minutes a second excursion train. The two excursion trains were pulled by large American locomotives, while the mixed train was laboriously towed by one of the dinkey engines which the railway, due to shortage in rolling stock, is compelled to use upon this section of the line.

From Suiyuan south as far as Shihpatze is a gradual incline. It is a common thing for trains to have to lie at stations while these dinkey engines get up steam for another tug. In this case the mixed train continued to lose time until, upon passing Fusheng station, thirty miles out, it was only half an hour ahead of the first excursion special.

Six miles further up, or only four miles north of Chwotzeshan station, the excursion train suddenly turned a sharp curve to find itself right upon the mixed train. The engineer jammed his brakes but skidded into the rear of the barely moving train ahead.

What the inertia of the big bulk of the locomotive and the heavy cars behind it did to the light train sounds like an old railroad man's yarn—interesting to hear but hard to believe. The big engine locked couplings with the rear car of the train, and, although giving it a terrific shaking which brought in all the glass and mussed up the furniture, held it upon the rails. The next car ahead and the car yet ahead of that, were likewise held to the track.

The seven cars beyond these three were violently uncoupled and thrown off the rails, while the little locomotive was yet again uncoupled from these and shot up the track for one-hundred feet, although left upon the rails. The big loco which did the damage hardly felt the shock.

The fireman of the small locomotive startled by the sudden push, apparently jumped from his window and struck a protruding bar of some kind. He was found with a tremendous hole in his neck, dead. No other members of the crews were injured. A dozen passengers in the third-class coach received minor injuries, which were attended to by a foreign-trained physician who happened to be on the special. Sir Beilby Alston, the British Minister, and other foreigners were on this train, which was compelled to put back and lie over night at Fusheng station.

The worst damage was done in the rear car of the train which suffered, which was the private car of Mr. Chang, Chief Engineer of the Pingtehchuan-Suiyuan section of the railway. The wife and married daughter of one of Mr. Chang's assistants, with other members of both families, were also in the car. The spectacle of the dazzling headlight of the big locomotive bearing down upon them in the darkness frightened the occupants of the car into prostration.

The District Chief Engineer himself is said to have fainted from fright and been in a comatose condition for some minutes. The daughter of his assistant was made insane from fright, and had to be carefully watched, until she could be taken back to Kalgan. It is believed that her madness will be temporary only.

Injury done the track was cleared up overnight, and traffic, in the crude fashion inevitable upon such a new line, again proceeds normally.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PERLES, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children, in fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

INDIAN LEADER SLAYS MEN FOR AIDING TROOPS

Many Hindus Also Decaptitated And Their Heads Are Thrown Into Well

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—The latest news of the Moplah rising shows that the Khilafat leader, Kunhamed, who was recently reported to have established a Khilafat "kingdom" in one of the affected districts and was subsequently stated to have fled before the British troops, is now heading a rebel band of 2,250 men, with 50 firearms.

According to refugees who have arrived at Calicut from Thuvur, 34 Hindus and two Moplahs who were tried by Kunhamed were executed there, their heads being cut off and thrown into a well.

The Moplahs were beheaded for helping the troops. Fifty Hindus houses in Thuvur also were burned down.

POLAND ENTERS DENIAL OF ANY FRENCH BACKING

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Sept. 29.—The Polish Government in its latest note to Mr. Chicherin, Commissar of Foreign Affairs of Soviet Russia, denies the accusation of the Soviet Government that the Polish Government is harboring White Guard bandits and that Russian Cossacks are employed in the Polish frontier defense service.

The note also repudiates the charge of the Soviet Government that Poland is acting under pressure of France. In conclusion the note refers to the peaceful intentions of the Polish Government, which is striving to abide by the conditions of the Riga Peace Treaty.

The Paris press is keenly interested in Russo-Polish relations. The French papers are criticising the French Government for its pressure upon Poland and Rumania against Soviet Russia.

RIFFS RESISTING SPAIN'S ADVANCE IN DESPERATION

(French Wireless through Reuter)

YALE IN CHINA'S STUDENT ROLL GIVEN INCREASE

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, Sept. 30.—The papers may scare away visitors from provinces at a distance but the Colleges of Yale in China have never been so well filled as this month; and never have seen better representation from so many distant provinces. Who would have imagined a dozen years ago that conservative Hunan would be bringing together students from north, south, east and west? But right here in Changsha there are actually enrolled students from Peking, Canton, Shanghai Chengtu. And as if Canton were not far south enough, there are three studying here from Hainan.

The College of Arts opened on September 8, and has enrolled just under 200 in the middle school and 100 in the college department. These numbers would be much higher if there were but space to accommodate them. In the medical classes there is already evidence of the influence exerted by providing modern teaching facilities.

The new laboratory of science given a year ago by the Rockefeller Foundation has made a definite increase in the size of the medical entering group, this now numbering 15 men, the largest entering figure on record, in the medical school proper.

And what is more, women are going to study medicine even in conservative Hunan! One will enter the medical college in 1922 from Ginling College at Nanking; and two more are already enrolled in the premedical school here, preparing to enter medical college in 1923.

They carry themselves as well and show as much speed in their mental activities as girls in any other land. The men are already apprehensive over the competition that has sprung up.

RECONSTRUCTION OF HANKOW IS NOW LIVE TOPIC

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Sept. 29.—The talk of reconstructing the city of Hankow along modern lines to make room for further expansion of Hankow as a commercial and industrial port has been resurrected here by the news of appointment of Admiral Tang Shang-ming, former Tuchun of Hunan, as the Director-General of the Bureau of Reconstruction of the Commercial Port of Hankow. A Presidential mandate has been passed at a cabinet meeting at Peking appointing Tang for his new work, but due to unavoidable hitches the mandate has been pigeonholed and not yet promulgated.

The way Admiral Tang, now in Hankow, and his colleagues are going at this big job shows they mean business this time. But publicly the project is only sensed as another get-money-quick scheme of Peking, which is reported to be contemplating a foreign loan of $100,000,000 from British and American financiers. The Admiral and his men are forging ahead with the organisation of the Bureau, in which they want to include the civilian elements of Hankow.

Information from other Chinese circles leads to the suspicion this is only a political move by Peking to tide over the civil governor crisis in Hupeh, where Tsao Kun, Chin Yung-peng and Li Yuan-hung have recommended Admiral Tang Shang-ming, Chang Kuo-kan and Lao Han-chang in succession to replace retiring governor, Liu Tsen-en. To avoid displeasing any of these three, Peking has seen fit to urge Liu to remain in his Hupeh post. But as Tsao Kun has already sent Admiral Tang over to Hankow, Peking was obliged to placate Tsao by appointing Tang to the suddenly revived post of the Reconstruction Bureau.

Kerosene As An Anti-Freeze Remedy

The question is frequently asked as to the advisability of kerosene oil as an anti-freeze liquid for use in the radiator during cold weather. Undoubtedly kerosene would prevent freezing in any temperature likely to be encountered in the United States and it is cheap. Here its virtues end. Being an oil, it will attack the rubber connections in the water system with a savage delight that will quickly destroy all such links in the system.

World Of Planets In Atom; Space Infinite

BY CHARLES NORDMAN
(Famous French Scientist)

Paris, Sept. 3.—Measurement of the "positive core" of the electron, the smallest known object, which has baffled scientists for years, has been achieved by a body of eminent French scientists after a long period of the most painstaking and difficult research. Their experiments revealed the fact that the atom is a world composed of an infinite number of planets revolving at a tremendous speed around a core called the "positive core" or "noyau positive." The figures contained in this article are positively staggering to the imagination.

The "mite," the smallest of known animals before the invention of the miscroscope, had a volume less than a cubic millimeter. But the microscope shows that a cubic milimeter of rotten stone is composed of more than 2,000,000 shells of fossil animals. A drop of pure water contains about 150,000,000,000 infusoria.

But that is not all—the head of a pin contains eight billion atoms. The atom has been measured precisely and has a diameter equal to one ten-millionth of a milimeter.

We have not yet come to the smallest known object. Some recent researches have shown that it is the positive core. This "noyau" has a diameter 2,000 times smaller than a milimeter.

The mite could contain 1,000 sextillion of sextillions of positive cores, i. e., 1,000,000,000

Fine Brown	23/21

Barky	16/13½
SCRAP
Virgin and Pressed	Nil
Loose	Nil

Catalogued for Sale: 1,279,545 lbs. (about 571 tons).

Offered 1,130,835 lbs. (about 505 tons).

Sold 934,189 lbs. (about 417 tons).

Since our last report a healthier tone has prevailed in the rubber markets, several American manufacturers having bought heavily both in London and Singapore. London has advanced ½d. and Singapore 2 to 3 cents, whereas the New York market has remained rather quiet.

At the auction the demand was good, and "shorts" being keen on covering brought prices for Sheet considerably up.

The firm tone did not last, however, and the tendency at the close was slightly easier.

571 tons were catalogued, 505 offered and 417 changed hands.

Standard Sheet sold up to 30½ cents; some lots were sold at 30 cents, these prices marking 2½ to 3 cents up on the week.

Sheet equal to Standard was in good demand, advancing 1½ to 3 cents.

Off Quality Sheet was subject to a corresponding increase in prices.

No sales of Awarded Standard 1st Latex Crepe took place, as sellers would not accept buyers' prices; 29½ cents was the highest bid.

Crepe equal to Standard found buyers at 28½ to 29 cents, thus advancing ½ to 1 cent.

Off Color Latex met with a far competition only.

Fine Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes were readily disposed of at above prices.

N. B.—The above prices for Standard Quality Sheet and Crepe are only paid for small lots at the auctions, whereas bigger quantities in the outside market generally fetch from 1 cent to 1½ above these figures.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

Shanghai, October 5, 1921

Spot bar silver was down 3/8 and forward 1/2d. in London yesterday. The New York price of silver advanced to 70¾ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 374¾.

The Sterling rate of the day here was unchanged from yesterday but the Gold Dollar rate was raised to 75 and the Yen dropped to 60¾.

At the opening the market was steady, business being done in Sterling at 4/3¼ for October delivery and 4/2¼ for December.

However, there was strong demand from merchants and speculators during the course of the day and rates eased off very materially.

At the close there were no sellers in Sterling better than 4/2 for October and 4/1¼ for December.

There were few bills offering today and little cover of any kind in the market.

Advices from London and New York quote the silver markets as being steady, although our weak market here may result in a slight reaction, in the next day or two, in the price of silver at foreign centers.

A MOTHER OF FIFTEEN CHILDREN.

Yet Feels Young At Seventy.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Mather is the proud mother of fifteen children. Her age is seventy, she looks sixty and says she feels younger than she looks. How she attained to ripe old age so gracefully Mrs. Mather explained not long ago at her home, 11A Beacon Street, Summerville, Mass. This charming old American lady has not always had the good health she now enjoys as will be seen. She said:—

"Some time ago I had a severe attack of pneumonia. Instead of gradually regaining my strength after the disease left I seemed to stand still. I began to think that I should always be a burden on those about me. I had severe headaches and attacks of extreme weakness when it was impossible for me to move. My appetite was poor and there was a burning sensation in my stomach after eating. Sometimes this was followed by a piercing pain.

"I was sure that I had a good many years of health before me and when the prescribed medicines failed to help me I bought a bottle of Dr. Williams' pink pills. I had heard of the remedy from friends. The first bottle helped me so much that I continued taking the pills until I had completely recovered my health. I no longer have headaches, my appetite is good and the stabbing and burning pains have left me. I feel now that I shall live almost as long as my grand father who was a hundred years old when he died. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' pink pills for I know that they are an excellent tonic."

Write today to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai for the free booklet "Building Up the Blood." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' pink pills, or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle, or $8 for 6 bottles, post free.

The Personal Equation In The Pacific Parley

DIPLOMATIC dexterity, the power of one individual to alter the judgments of another, and more elusive angles of the personal equation, have determined the findings of international conferences more often than the peculiar justice of the claims of one country as opposed to those of another.

The deliberation shown by the nations invited to the Washington conference in selecting their delegates seems to indicate that lessons of the past are being studied. The coming conference bids for open sessions and open covenants, but there is no reason to believe that the personalities of individual delegates will play a role less significant than at the Congress of Vienna or the Peace Conference of Paris.

Mention of the Vienna Congress today brings to mind not the colossal failure to establish peace in Europe, but rather the peculiar traits of that brilliant assembly of reactionaries, who were feted in all the gorgeous pageantry and frivolity of the Austrian capital.

Czar Alexander I. was there with his dream to abolish all wars by secret deliberations of governments. His memory bears a strange likeness to the Utopian dreamer of the Paris conference, and like him he fell a victim to his own far-flung illusions.

Prince Metternich, the most uncompromising of reactionaries, exponent of Austrian autocracy and police despotism, and enemy of all constitutional reform in Europe, was naturally the bitterest opponent of the liberal Russian Czar, whose policies he feared.

Lord Castlereagh; at that time called the tool of Metternich, has recently come in for a greater amount of gratitude from Britain. Prince Talleyrand, the adroit master of clever diplomatic technique, saved France from the complete consequences of the Napoleonic defeat. The fifth figure of the cluster was Prince von Hardenberg, Prussia's able promoter of army reform which greatly increased the efficiency of that system.

Likewise of the Versailles treaty it can be said that the personalities of the leaders are more vivid than the results achieved. Those who fought in the war know little about the terms of the treaty save that Alsace and Lorraine were returned to France, that many small republics sprang into being, and that German colonies and other enemy territories were mandated to the Allies.

The press reports of the conference in progress showed the byplay of personalities, sometimes in agreement, often bitterly opposed. One saw Clemenceau as a caustic realist, who stood like a rock on all issues affecting the safety of France. His love of sarcastic epigram and delight in launching a bon mot regardless of sensitive feelings, made him a tiger in more than name to the delegates of minor countries.

Lloyd George stands out as the statesman of expediency, whose shifting course at the conference was in contrast to the executive ability he showed during the war. It was in the private conversations between the Big Three that Lloyd George was at his best, and at those unrecorded meetings he scored his greatest successes.

Wilson was there with his Fourteen Points, which were strangely neglected during the discussions, and his Covenant for which he sacrificed the few special measures his country wished to have written into the treaty.

The Prince of Moderation as he was called, Venizelos, obtained a splendid diplomatic victory for Greece, but his work was later undone by his repudiation at the polls, and the Revision of the Treaty of Sevres. As a statesman he probably has no superior. The suppleness of Signor Orlando and the silent hostility of Baron Sonnino were at cross purposes in the Italian delegation, but the two leaders united to push the Fiume acquisition, and thereby lost much that would have been more to Italy's economic advantage.

Marquis Saionji and Baron Makino accomplished Japan's program by the excellent tactics of manuevering in the background until their interests were brought forward. Other bright personalities on the Paris stage of parley were Roman Dmowski, the patriotic Pole, Paderewski, the noblest figure of the assembly, and Dr. Benes, the eloquent champion of Czecho-Slovakia.

The Versailles treaty was colored by the play between these brightly limned personalities, and it is likely that the results of the Washington conference will also bear the marks of the personal attractions and antipathies, of the comparative abilities of the principle delegates.

Britain's delegates to Washington have not yet been announced. Lloyd George is reported as unable to attend because of domestic affairs. Premier Briand will lead the French delegation, and to avoid a transfer of the Supreme Council battles to Washington it is perhaps just as well that Lloyd George should not go himself.

Of Japan's three delegates, Prince Tokugawa, President of the House of Peers, Admiral Kato, Minister of the Navy, and Baron Shidehara, Ambassador to Washington, much is being said in the Japanese press. All comment seems to favor Prince Tokugawa, save from the conservatives who would keep the leader of the peers away from active politics. The appointment of Prince Tokugawa is considered a brilliant stroke by Premier Hara who dared not send the logical man, Count Uchida, Foreign Minister, because of the opposition of the military party.

Admiral Kato is denounced by most Japanese journals as the worst possible choice, and is the subject of threatening letters, alleged to come from Chinese, Koreans, and Socialists. The admiral's presence at the conference is one of Japan's answers to the universal cry for reduction of armaments, and indicates the strength of the military party.

China's chief delegate, Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is considered by the Chinese as their ablest spokesman. Dr. Yen speaks perfect English, and as China's case is the most vital issue preceding the discussion of disarmament he will probably be one of the outstanding figures.

It will be instructive to study the personalities of the assembled statesmen, for much will become obvious when it is known what diplomats are to confer. Secret pacts to be turned into open treaties, as at Paris, probably will not trouble the waters of the conference. But each country will have assumed a stand on the tentative agenda, and its success in maintaining that stand will depend largely upon the skill and personal power of its delegates.

Immigration Into Canada

A recovery of immigration into Canada amounting to 27 percent over the previous year occurred in the year ending March 30, 1921, says Commerce monthly, issued by the National Bank of Commerce of New York. Of a total of 148,000 immigrants 74,000 were British, 48,000 came from the United States and 26,000 from other countries.

Emigration from the United States to Canada increased steadily from 2,400 in 1897 to the high point of 139,000 in 1913. The flow was checked at the outbreak of the war by the prospect of conscription and heavy war taxation, and later by the increased prosperity of the United States. An even greater reduction followed the armistice and the present recovery is but a small advance toward resumption of the pre-war movement.

American immigrants are eminently desirable, not only because they are assimilated without difficulty, since living conditions are so much alike in the two countries, but because they are on the average wealthier than the settlers from any other country. It is estimated by the Department of Immigration and Colonisation that the American settlers in 1920 brought with them wealth averaging $372 per capita. It is estimated that the British immigrant before the recent enactment prescribing possession of at least $250 brought with him on the average about $100.

FOOTBALL AGAIN

"King" Cricket is dead, and
Australia's the "Ashes"
"Boss" Football's supreme with its smashes and dashes;
And during the months when the temperature's low—
Will I be a Ref.—The answer's
"Oh, no!"

Tomorrow a meeting of footballers will take place at the Cathedral School at 6 p.m. when arrangements will be made for the coming season. Mr. Secretary Clifford calls upon all those who are interested in the antics of the "inflated spheroid" (with apologies to Walter) to turn up in force with suggestions, so that the coming season will be the "best ever."

And this leads me to reminisce upon the game that calls out the thousands in their furcoats and heavy underwear, when the mercury drops somewhere south of zero.

EVEN REFEREES MAKE MISTAKES

One of the strangest mistakes ever made by a referee was surely that in the replayed semi-final cup-tie between West Bromwich Albion and Blackburn Rovers, on the Sheffield Wednesday ground, before the war.

It was a tense struggle. Time was nearly up, and there seemed little likelihood of a deciding goal being scored.

Suddenly the Albions forced a corner-kick, and Shearman, the outside-left, placed the ball straight into the net. At the same time the referee blew his whistle, and pointed to the center of the field, to indicate that a goal had been scored.

Away scampered the Albion players, turning cartwheels, and hugging each other as excited players often do when a goal is scored.

Meanwhile, Bob Crompton was standing, with arms akimbo, in his own goal-mouth dumb-founded by the decision. Then he, too, started running up the field.

On overtaking the referee, he explained, what every schoolboy knows, that you cannot score a goal direct from a corner, and, of course, the official needed no convincing. Imagine the disappointment of the Albions when the referee blew his whistle and, withdrawing the award of a goal, ordered a goal-kick.

Last season Derby County won only five of their forty-two matches, and yet they had a slightly better record than Bradford. It is hoped that Bloomer, who has been appointed coach will restore the fortunes of the Midland Club.

THE "BABE" RUTH OF FOOTBALL

With a defense considerably stronger than last season, and a forward line second to none in England, Bolton Wanderers are considered among the most likely candidates for championship honors this time round.

And the square jaw of Joseph Smith, the "demon" inside left, is firmly set with determination to break the individual goal-scoring record. He came desperately near to doing it last season, for he had only to score one goal in the last match to beat Freeman's total of thirty-eight goals. His luck was out, though, for he was injured very early in the game, and had to leave the field long before the end.

During the summer Smith has taken to himself a wife, and it is rather an interesting fact that in the register in Manchester Cathedral Smith's name is next to that of Leslie Knighton, the popular manager of the Arsenal Club.

With the ball at his toes, there are few men in football who can send it goal-wards at a faster pace than Smith, and in this connection a good story is told of his early career.

He sent a ball whizzing past a young goal-keeper like greased lightning, and when the goalie was picking the ball out of the net a colleague said to him jokingly: "Why didn't you stop that one?"

"Stop it!" exclaimed the terrified goal-keeper. "Why, it took me all my time to get out of its way."

Hardy, the well known international goal-keeper, has not retired from the game as was expected, but will, I hear, turn out for Notts Forest.

CRICKET AND FOOTBALL INTERNATIONAL

Andy Ducat is leaving Aston Villa and joining Fulham. The great cricketer and footballer has been forced to seek fresh football triumphs elsewhere owing to the Villa wanting their players to live round or about Birmingham. Andy Ducat was one who could scarcely afford to do so, seeing that he is a Surrey cricketer, and that he has a business in London. Fulham paid fifteen hundred pounds to obtain the services of the master of two sports, and although one would say that he is the kind of player more at home in the First League than in the Second, Ducat's wealth of experience should add considerably to the effectiveness of the Fulham team.

Ducat is not numbered among the half-backs who tear about the field in desperate haste, but there are few footballers who have more completely mastered the art of being in the right place at the right time—of making their heads save their legs. And if the super-dashing tactics of Fulham second league opponents should prove too much for Ducat, Manager Phil Kelso will probably make him into a full-back.

In fact, there are some people who say that Ducat may make a better full-back than ever he was as a half-back, which is saying a great deal, for at his best he has few peers in the middle line.

A Japanese Account Of Conditions In A Silk Filature Where Girls Work From 4 a.m. To 7 p.m.

(Japan Advertiser)

The following letter appeared in one of the women's magazines for July. It is supposed to be addressed to the daughter of a millionaire silk spinning factory by one of her friends who has just seen the factory.

"My dear Toshiko—Yesterday I went to the silk filature owned by your father. It was the first time I had ever seen any industrial factory, and I was naturally much interested. Early in the morning I had received a telephone message to come and look at the flower gardens in the grounds of the factory dormitory. It was a beautiful May day, and the trees were so green with new leaves that I did not like to think of staying at home all day, so I went and greatly enjoyed looking at the beautiful foreign flowers planted there. They told me at the factory that next year there will be over 2,000 tsubo planted with flowers, and that they intend to plant roses, grapes and orange trees all over the place. I was shown the recreation room and the exercise grounds. There were splendid tennis courts there and in the recreation room there were two very good organs for the girls to play. I began to think this is indeed a model factory they care so much for their workers'. And I admired everything I saw, as I thought the workwomen must be happy and contented, and I rejoiced very much because it was your father's factory.

INSIDE THE FACTORY

"Nevertheless, I felt that I could not return home satisfied until I had seen some of the workwomen. And as we were coming out of the orchard we met a woman, thin and emaciated, sallow and lifeless, and I knew that I could not return home without seeing the factor itself. I felt I must know if all the women there were pale and thin like the poor woman I had met. So I asked my guide if all the workwomen were so pale and sick looking. He seemed angry at my question, and replied gruffly, "Recently many of the women have been loafing by pretending to be sick, and it is very wrong of them." I thought this strange and asked to be shown over the factory. This I was permitted to do.

"In the first room there were 12 or 13 girls working. There were many kettles filled with bubbling boiling water. Each of these girls was attending to several of these kettles, putting in and taking out cocoons, with out saying a word. The air was terrible, and as I stood in the doorway, and a whiff of it came to my nostrils, I could not stand it, and had to leave the place for I thought it would make me faint.

HEAT AND SMELL

"Then I went into the second room. I had taken but one step into it, when I shrank back, I could not move another foot forward. There were over 100 women in that room skilfully taking the silk of the cocoons out of the boiling water, and winding it on machines. They could not sit down while at this work, nor could they speak nor hear others speak. They could not even look up from their task. The whole room was sealed up tight. The temperature was unbearably high from the boiling kettles. And the odor of the pupae was nauseating. My head began to ache, and I knew that neither you nor I could have stayed in such a place for even five minutes. I could not after this go into the room where the silk was cleaned, for the temperature of that room is always above 90. I could only look at that room from outside the windows, and think 'this is a pitiful place.'

IN THE DORMITORY

"I asked if I might see the girls' dormitory, and without any comment I was taken to see it. There I was handed over to a woman inspector, about 40 years old. She had mean eyes, and a very polite manner to persons like myself, so she must make a fine servant for people of the capitalist class. She showed me about. Everything was very clean and well arranged. In front of the rooms the names of the inmates were written up. As there were very many of these names, I asked how many girls lived in each room. Sixteen the inspector told me. And she told me that each person is allowed one tatami (6 feet by 3) in every room the futon (quilts) were piled in a corner. They looked as thin as 'sembei' certainly not like quilts that people used to rest their bodies on. They were like boards. I said "Are not the futons very few for so many people?" And the matron answered, "O yes but then two girls sleep on each futon." My heart felt so sick I could not speak. I went to the window and looked at the garden for a few minutes to regain my spirits. "Are there no sheets?" I asked then. "At first we gave them sheets as we wish to make the girls contended and happy, but two or three took the sheets away with them when they left the factory so we took the rest away. You don't know how troublesome these common working women really are," the matron replied, and she went

Woodrow Wilson Foundation

Public collection for the $1,000,000 Woodrow Wilson Foundation will not begin until October 23, but those in charge of the movement are encouraged by the receipt to date of about $10,000 in unsolicited subscriptions. This money has come from many sources. Hamilton Holt, the Executive Director in charge of headquarters, mentioned the receipt of $300 from a citizen of Amsterdam, and a man of limited resources who gave two Liberty bonds. He had bought five during the war, and he felt that they were his gift to the nation and that he must not profit from them. Three he had already given to other causes, and these last two he gave to the Foundation.

The idea of raising a memorial to Woodrow Wilson during his lifetime, which took formal shape at a public meeting on March 15 last, has made great progress during the past months. The sum proposed has increased from $500,000 to a minimum of $1,000,000. The income from this fund is to be awarded at stated intervals by a nationally representative but non-partisan committee that has not yet been named.

The general field of the award has been defined. It is to be given "to the individual or group that has rendered, within a specified period, meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice." It is planned to leave discrimination within this wide field to the committee, in order not to limit the value of the award to future generations.

Although the fund will be amassed through public subscription, the activities, according to Mr. Holt, bear any resemblance to a "drive" for money. A public invitation to contribute will be extended to all who are friends of Woodrow Wilson or who approve the object of the Foundation. The necessary machine for collecting many small subscriptions is now being built up.

The organisation consists of a national headquarters in New York, while every State is to have its own Chairman, under whom are County Chairmen with committees of local canvassers. A good many States have already been organised, and the committee at headquarters reports that they have met with no refusals on the grounds of disapproval.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is National Chairman of the Foundation. The Executive Committee, of which Cleveland H. Dodge is Chairman, includes Frank I. Cobb, Professor Stephen P. Duggan, Edwin F. Gay, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Lynch, Henry Morgenthau, Adolph S. Ochs, Colonel E. M. House, Frank L. Polk, Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Miss Virginia Potter, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Charles S. Simonson, Mrs. H. Otto Wittpenn and Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany.

Professor Duggan has recently been appointed Chairman of the Educational Committee; Miss Potter is Chairman of the Women's Committee, and Dr. Lynch is Chairman of the Committee on Churches. It is surmised by Mr. Holt that 90 percent of the people touched by these national committees are in sympathy with Woodrow Wilson.

on scolding the workwomen in a mean nasty way. I could not stand it and I said "Perhaps they are bad, but don't you think that perhaps the company and the inspectors, even the matron herself, may all be just a little bit at fault too? These women are human beings even if they are factory hands." I was very emphatic, and after this I went out into the green gardens and my mind became quiet.

NO REST HOURS

"I asked the office man who had been my guide in the factory how many hands there were in the factory. Two hundred, he told me. "Do they have frequent rest hours," I next inquired. Can you imagine it, Toshiko, they work from four in the morning until seven at night without any stop, except at noon time they have 15 or 20 minutes rest. When I asked if they had a day of rest each week, I was told that this had been given from time to time, but that the women has proved very ungrateful for the favor because they had all gone to bed and slept through their day of rest, and had not gone on the jaunts the company had arranged for them to enjoy! My spirit sank again. Because it would cost a great deal to supply it the girls are not given enough bedding to sleep alone and rest decently, and they are ungrateful because they welcome a chance to rest and sleep. (Of course it would be more gratifying to the company to have the world see its work people parading about at a picnic provided by the company's benevolence.) When I asked if the owner or his family ever came to see the factory, they told me "No one ever comes but the family Banto. He only comes to see the accounts."

"From the outside the factory and the dormitory looked very fine and splendid, but inside,—all those working there appeared more like ghosts than human beings. I could not help recalling your beautiful Karuizawa 'besso,' where no one lives. Why all those luxuries of yours are made of the life and happiness of these piteous women, whose beauty, youth, and lives even are being destroyed for your benefit. Why can not your father who is so extravagant on his pleasures, allow these women to rest, or give them a decent futon to sleep on alone? We know that it is bad for a weak body to work eight hours a day, but these women work 14 hours! All the pretty things provided for them don't interest them at all. They only want to sleep and rest. The sickrooms are always full.

"I felt that these shoodless women were the victims of civilisation, and I wept for them. Yet this factory of your father's was spoken of in all the papers last year as a 'model factory.'

"Yours, etc.,

THREE TONGUES USED AS CHURCH IS DEDICATED

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Sept. 29.—Sunday was a high day with the Independent Church in this city. Their new church building on Shanghai street was dedicated amid a gathering of many hundreds. Notable pastors of the Presbyterian church have been gathered here for this occasion and for revival meetings, and for street preaching and special efforts to reach the people with the gospel message.

This Independent Movement was traced back to its beginning about 1885. During the last 16 years about 400 members have entered this church. They have broken away from the work under the Presbyterian Mission in Shantung; however, they seemed united in spirit, though depending on themselves for financial support.

Perhaps this is the first building of these Independents to be dedicated in this province; there is a rather strong body in Tsinan, but their house is not completed. This church with commodious galleries will probably seat comfortably 750. On the same compound is a Kindergarten, and a Primary School.

Representatives of Japanese churches and of Lutheran and Baptist churches were present; Japanese, Chinese and English were used. Commercial bodies also attended. This property must be worth a good many thousand dollars. We congratulate this church and wish it a worthy career in affecting the moral and religious life of Tsingtao.

Missionary Editor Visits In Shantung

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Sept. 30.—A distinguished visitor from Sweden landed in Tsingtao this week. Dr. C. G. Lundin, editor of the Missionary Mail, Secretary of the Swedish Baptist Home Mission Board, has come for a visit to the Stations of the Swedish Baptist Mission in Shantung. From conferences in that mission and from visits to other bodies he is gathering information which will help their cause in the homeland.

With Dr. Lundin came some new missionaries. Mr. Oscar Rinell son of Rev. J. A. Rinell, Kiaochow, born in China, is returning after preparation in Sweden and America for work in the evangelistic field. Miss Hulda Ejerblad comes for work with women. Dr. Andersen came for work in Mongolia, but it is quite possible, that he may decide to undertake his medical work in Shantung. Enroute to China the party came by America, and Dr. Lundin attended the meeting at Des Moines of the Northern Baptist Convention.

A very happy feature of this visit is that Rev. J. A. Rinell, Kiaochow, Rev. J. E. Lindberg, Chuch'eng, and Pastor Lundin were Seminary mates. A special conference of Chinese is to be held at Kao-mi Oct. 6-9. We rejoice with the Swedish Baptist Mission on their new accessions and on the presence among them of their editor and mission secretary.
